Pershitz Must Provide Further Support for Child

$750 Deposited With County Treasurer to Guarantee Payment of $56 Every Two Months Pending Trial Is About Exhausted—Will Move Case for Trial Unless Adjustment Is Made.

An echo of the Morris Pershitz abandonment case was sounded in county court Tuesday afternoon. Pershitz was indicted for abandonment of his child in this county and since that indictment back in 1927 he has occupied the attention of this and other courts to a very considerable extent.

Pershitz was charged with abandoning his child and after a considerable amount of trouble in getting him into court a bench warrant was issued and a search was made for the man. While driving over the Kingston-Ellenville highway one afternoon Jacob V. Merrihew and Deputy Ralph Constable were hailed by a man who asked for a ride. The car was stopped and the stranger picked up. It was then discovered that the man was Pershitz who had considerately asked the sheriff for a ride.

He was brought to jail and arraigned and at that time cash bail was taken for appearance later in court. In addition to $300 put up for bail another sum of $750 was deposited with the county treasurer to guarantee the payment of $56 every two months for the support of the child pending trial of the case.

A couple of payments were made and then Pershitz failed to pay and the $750 has since been drawn on and given toward the support of the child. That sum is now about exhausted and an effort is being made by District Attorney Traver to get Mr. Pershitz to provide further support.

Following Pershitz's arrest, his being placed in jail and his subsequent provision of bail his case attracted the attention of one Mr. Ecob, of New York, who as head of an association which defends members of the all-mony club in New York, took up the Pershitz case. Contending that Pershitz was being sadly abused and persecuted he took up his case and wrote officials to the effect that he was going to investigate the case thoroughly. He also requested newspapers to make an investigation and even threatened to come to Kingston and personally look into the matter. When invited to come by the district attorney and others he was busy.

Pershitz Again Wanted.

Now Mr. Pershitz is again wanted in order that some adjustment may be made to provide for care of the child during the time the case is pending and Mr. Pershitz fails to appear. His attorney in New York promises to produce Pershitz or make some settlement which will be satisfactory to the court but made no appearance Tuesday. Mr. Traver announced that he wanted instructions from the court as to what to do but stated that he was going to move the case for trial July 10 at 2 o'clock unless some adjustment was made. He said he would ask the court to empanel a jury and he would go to trial immediately on the abandonment charge. Pershitz's defiant manner toward the court had tired all concerned.

Following a denial at first that the child belonged to him he made subsequent applications to various courts for permission to see the child, to have the day set by the court to see the child changed and various other applications. He also charged that he was not being permitted to see the child as directed by the courts.

Henry Klein of this city once appeared for Pershitz but gave up the case. Then Mr. Ecob interested himself and since that Pershitz has retained Samuel Bulcher of New York city.

The money which is paid for the support of the child is handled by a representative of the Jewish Women's Society in New York and paid by that agent to Mrs. Pershitz.

If Pershitz fails to appear next week his $300 cash bail will be forfeited and he will undoubtedly be arrested again.

MAN BELIEVED DROWNED SAFE AT NOVA SCOTIA

Halifax, N. S., July 3 (AP).—One of two men who were believed to have lost their lives in the capsizing of their seasled in Long Island Sound Sunday was safe today at Cheverie, near here.

The Gypsum carrier Peer Gynt landed Frederick Gregory, of West Mystic, Conn., at the Hants county port last night unharmed by five hours immersion in the water. He succeeded in keeping himself afloat with the aid of a safety cushion. It is believed his companion, Morris Sacks, New York law clerk, drowned.

Gregory said that after they had progressed some distance down the sound the motor failed and that shortly afterward the boat capsized in a squall. He said Sacks struck out for shore, but that he managed to keep a safety cushion as the boat went over.

Butts Will Be Sentenced After Record Is Learned

Court Decides to Make Further Investigation Into Record of Negro, Who Was Convicted of Grand Larceny, Before Pronouncing Sentence.

Herbert Butts, colored, who was convicted of grand larceny, second degree, in county court last week, was not sentenced Tuesday afternoon as scheduled. Owing to contradictory statements given by Butts in regard to his previous convictions the court decided to make further investigation before sentencing Butts. His record in New Jersey will be learned.

When Butts was convicted last fall and sentenced to jail he stated he had been previously convicted of grand larceny in New Jersey. When asked the usual questions Tuesday in regard to previous convictions he said he had been convicted of possession of narcotics in New Jersey and denied he had ever been convicted for grand larceny. He explained that it had been petit larceny. Under the Baumes law it makes a vast difference whether the former conviction or convictions were felony or misdemeanor. Butts denied that he had been convicted of possession and sale of narcotics although the information which the local authorities have is that it was sale as well as possession of narcotics. Sale and possession is a felony under New York state laws while possession alone is not.

Prior to the court's postponement of sentence until July 10 at 2 o'clock, William Kaercher, counsel for Butts, moved to set aside the verdict and the motion was denied.

District Attorney Traver asked the court, owing to the statements made by Butts, to postpone sentence for a time in order that a thorough investigation might be had and a complete record of Butts in New Jersey secured. He stated that he had information showing at least one previous conviction in New Jersey of a felony, sale and possession of narcotics.

The court recessed until Wednesday, July 10, at 2 o'clock.

Hoover-Mellon Agree on Taxation

Washington, July 3 (AP).—The existance of a difference of opinion between President Hoover and Secretary Mellon upon the possibility of a reduction in Federal taxes was denied today at the White House.

It was stated emphatically that the president and the secretary of the treasury are in complete agreement upon this subject.

Further, it was said that the president's statement of yesterday had been read by Mr. Mellon before it was issued and had his approval, so that it represented the views of both.

In this announcement, President Hoover said the administration hoped that tax reduction might be possible, but before action could be taken the effect of recent legislation upon the treasury must be determined as well as the prospect of continued high governmental revenue and the possibility of curtailing normal expenditures.

Colonel Lewis L. Field, New Haven, attorney for Mrs. Fogarty, has not yet filed the reply to Tunney's answer, in which the retired boxer denied promising to marry the woman and charged her with an attempt to exploit an acquaintanceship with him, though he already had paid her more than $35,000 to waive any claims on him. The suit comes up in the September term of superior court.

Common Council Favors Abating Dog Nuisance

Too Many People Being Bitten by Dogs, Said Alderman Mann, Introducing Resolution Calling on Health Board for Action—Other Matters Before Aldermen.

The common council Tuesday evening went on record by a vote of 8 to 5 as favoring the abatement of the dog nuisance in Kingston and calling on the board of health to take action in the matter. The dog question came up when Alderman Sam N. Mann of the Sixth ward said that too many people were bitten by dogs and for that reason he would introduce a resolution calling on the health board to take action in the matter.

The Mann resolution read that the board of health take such action as necessary tending toward the elimination of the dog nuisance in reference to muzzles for all dogs and vaccination against rabies. It was seconded by Alderman O'Reilly, and before it was put to a vote there was some spirited discussion on the question.

Alderman Fox said that before he voted on the resolution he wanted to know who had to pay for the vaccination; the citizen who owned the dog, or did it come out of the board of health funds?

Fox Objected to Vaccination.

Alderman Fox said, that there were many men in Kingston who kept dogs for hunting purposes. These dogs were always kept on chains in the back yard and only taken off the chain when the owner took the dog into the woods and fields to hunt. He said he did not believe that that man should have to pay for having his dog vaccinated.

Hermance Raises Question.

Alderman Hermance asked what was going to prevent a dog owner from taking the animal outside the city and getting the license, thus getting rid of having the dog vaccinated and paying for it. He said that as long as a dog was licensed it could go anywhere in the state.

Another Child Bitten.

Alderman Relyea said he was in favor of doing something to abate the nuisance. He said that that day Fred DeGarmo's little girl had been bitten by a dog. Every precaution should be used, he said, and as far as vaccination was concerned he believed that if a man thought anything of his dog he would not object to paying for having the animal vaccinated. Alderman Relyea said he believed that dogs should be kept muzzled at all times.

Ordinance Not Enforced.

"There is an ordinance requiring all dogs to be kept muzzled," said Alderman Fox, "but it is not enforced." He added that vaccination would not stop dogs from biting but that muzzles would.

How Aldermen Voted.

The vote as recorded on the dog question was: In favor—Aldermen Dressel, Haines, Molyneaux, Mann, Clare, O'Reilly, Burger, Relyea.

Those opposed were Aldermen Hermance, Fox, Ostrander, Hull and Reilly.

Is Drafting Ordinance.

At the meeting of the board of health last month it was stated that the corporation counsel had been directed to draft an ordinance requiring a certificate of vaccination against rabies to be filed with the city clerk before a dog license was issued. Undoubtedly the ordinance will come up for action at this month's meeting of the health board.

Motions and Resolutions.

The following motions and resolutions were introduced and referred to the proper city boards:

By Alderman Mann—that the holes be filled in on Meadow and Ann streets.

By Alderman Fox—that catch basin on Catherine street, between Gill and Sycamore streets be cleaned and repaired as it is in bad condition; that sewer on Strand, between Gill and Sycamore street, be cleaned.

By Alderman Mann—that petition of property owners of Chambers street asking that that street be repaired be granted.

By Alderman Ostrander — that holes be filled in Hudson street; that Ravine and Hunter streets be repaired.

By Alderman Reilly—that holes on DeWitt street be filled and topdressed; that Davis and Chapel streets be repaired.

An Acoustic Expert.

Alderman O'Reilly introduced a resolution that the mayor be authorized to consult with acoustic experts in reference to the common council chamber. The alderman in explaining the resolution said that something should be done about the matter.

Other matters taken up at the council meeting will be found elsewhere.

School Budget Adopted; Tax Rate Is $9.30

Superintendent Michael Appears Before Common Council to Explain Budget—Twelve Room Addition to Be Made to High School—Other Matters Before Aldermen.

The budget prepared by the board of education was adopted by unanimous vote at the regular monthly meeting of the common council Tuesday evening. The adoption of the budget fixes the school tax rate at $9.30 per thousand valuation. Included in the school budget is an item of $60,000 to be used in starting the work of constructing a twelve room addition to the Kingston High School.

Superintendent M. J. Michael appeared before the common council and stated that he would be glad to answer any questions relative to the items that made up the school budget. In explaining the item of $60,000 in the budget, he said that it was planned to start the work of erecting a twelve room addition to the high school.

To Be Built in Rear.

Although no contractor has submitted figures as yet for building the proposed addition it was estimated that the cost would be approximately $120,000, which would include furnishings. It was planned to erect the addition in the rear, building a six room addition on each of the two wings.

It was not proposed to increase the teaching staff at the high school at present as the present force of teachers could take care of six of the new rooms proposed to be added. During the present year over 1,200 children were registered at the high school.

Why High School is Not Marked.

Alderman Clare said that many who saw the high school for the first time asked what building it was as there was no marking on the school to designate it.

Dr. Michael said that it was expected that that would be done shortly. There was a reason, he said, why the building had not been marked before. At the time it was being constructed no one knew just what to call the school. Some favored continuing the name of Kingston Academy and others the name of Ulster Academy. Today there is no hard feeling between either end of the city and every one, he thought, believed that the name of Kingston High School was a fitting name for the building.

Appropriate $300.

City Treasurer E. T. Shultis made a request that $300 be appropriated for addition clerk hire in his office during the school tax collection period. The appropriation was granted.

Wants $1,000 Damages.

Donald Spruck of 68 Pine Grove avenue filed a damage claim for $1,000 against the city for injuries he said he sustained by falling into a catch basin on Wall street. The claim was referred to the auditing committee and the corporation counsel.

Other matters taken up at the council session will be found elsewhere.

Moscrip Urged To Reconsider

Washington, July 3 (AP).—W. S. Moscrip of Lake Elmo, Minn., who has declined to serve on the federal farm board, is being urged to reconsider by President Hoover.

Moscrip was offered a place on the board last week after a conference with President Hoover and Secretary Hyde and took the proposal under consideration. In declining to serve he said that the necessities of his own business affairs required his attention to such an extent that he could not see his way clear to accept the post.

Moscrip had been chosen to represent the dairying industry in the deliberations of the board. He is secretary-treasurer of the Twin City Milk Producers' Association, a large dairying cooperative organization with headquarters in St. Paul, and in addition is extensively engaged in farming at Lake Elmo.

EUGENE O'NEILL'S WIFE OBTAINS RENO DIVORCE.

Reno, Nev., July 3 (AP).—Mrs. Agnes Boulton O'Neill obtained a divorce from Eugene G. O'Neill, noted playwright, behind the closed doors of the chambers of District Judge Thomas F. Moran here yesterday.

Papers in the case were not made public, having been sealed at Mrs. O'Neill's request when the case was filed Monday. Her attorney said, however, that the divorce was granted on grounds of desertion and that a property settlement agreed upon by the couple was confirmed by the court. Custody of two children, Shane, a boy, and Oona, a girl, was divided.

Mrs. O'Neill's legal representative announced in New York yesterday that the playwright had agreed to give her one-third of his annual income so long as the one-third does not exceed $10,000.

O'Neill was represented in court by a Reno attorney but was understood not to have opposed the charge.

Ulster & Delaware Railroad Included In New York Central Merger

Six Short-Line Railroads Authorized to be Acquired by New York Central Railroad Company Under Order of Interstate Commerce Commission—Central Gains Control of Big Four System.

Washington, July 3 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized the New York Central Railroad Company to acquire six short-line railroads in connection with its leasing of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railroad and the Michigan Central.

In a previous decision the commission authorized the New York Central to lease the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, known as the Big Four, and the Michigan Central on condition that it acquire six short lines.

These lines are the Blyne City, Gaylor and Alpena Railroad Company; the Chicago, Attica and Southern Railroad Company; the Federal Valley Railroad Company; the Fonda, Johnstown and Gloversville Railroad Company; the Owasco River Railway and the Ulster and Delaware Railroad Company.

In approving control of the six railroads by the New York Central the commission prescribed that no stock in the roads be disposed of without the commission's authority.

It also declared that it retained the right to reopen the proceedings and to issue any supplemental orders that might be necessary.

Roads Acquired by Central.

Under the order the New York Central gains control of the Big Four, which in turn controls the Cincinnati Northern Railroad Company, the Evansville, Indianapolis and Terre Haute Railroad Company, the Peoria and Eastern Railway Company, and the Kankakee and Seneca Railway Company; of the Railroad System of the Michigan Central Railroad Company and of the railroad properties of the Chicago, Kalamazoo and Saginaw Railway Company, in addition to the six short lines.

Explosion Wrecks Hellman Yacht

Explosion of gasoline fumes detonated by a spark from a generator wrecked the $100,000 yacht Tranquille II, owned by Richard Hellman, mayonnaise manufacturer, at her anchorage in Little Neck Bay off Bayside Yacht Club Tuesday morning. Two members of the crew were injured.

Mr. Hellmann, who is erecting a large country home at Beechford, on the upper Wittenburg road, left Kingston for New York Sunday with a party of friends aboard the yacht, which has made several trips here. The yacht, a 68 foot bridge-deck cruiser, was powered by two 300 horsepower Speedway motors. On the way down the river Sunday Charles A. Warren, local boat enthusiast, raced the Hellman cruiser off Esopus Island.

Reginald Smith, steward, and Otto Eichler, a sailor, were the only men aboard when the yacht was blown to pieces. Steel bulkheads between the cabin and engine room were twisted and crushed by the explosion and the yacht sank, only the bow and after superstructure remaining out of the water. The boat was built last year for Mr. Hellman by the Consolidated Shipbuilding Company and cost $75,000 to build and $25,000 to furnish.

Rail Engineers Threaten Strike

International Brotherhood Claims Sole Right to Represent Engineers Regardless of Other Unions—Strike Vote Being Tabulated.

Chicago, July 3 (AP).—Locomotive engineers of six western railways are considering a strike to compel the carriers to recognize an individual grievance agreement with their International Brotherhood, R. E. Edrington, assistant grand chief of the brotherhood, revealed last night.

Engineers of the Missouri Pacific, the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis, and the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad already have voted, Edrington said, and the vote now is being tabulated.

Negotiations between the engineers and officials of the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, and Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroads have come to an impasse, Edrington declared, predicting a strike vote by the enginers of those carriers within a short time.

Other railroads in all parts of the country have become involved, Edrington said, and the strike threat might become national in significance.

The controversy is based on the refusal of the railroads to deal with the engineers independently of the firemen and enginemen. Officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers contend their organization has the sole right to represent engineers, regardless of whether the latter belong to the engineers, or firemen's and enginemen's brotherhood.

Condemn Church Tendencies

President of United Lutheran Church in America Makes Analysis of Tendencies Which Menace Growth of Church Throughout the World.

Copenhagen, July 3.—The voice of a powerful and recognized leader, the Rev. Dr. Frederick H. Knubel, of New York, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, was raised in protest before the Second Lutheran World Convention today against three tendencies which menace the growth of the church throughout the world. These were: first, syncretism, or the attempts to reconcile Christianity to other religious bodies, such as, for instance, Mohammedanism, with which it is irreconcilably at variance; second, secularism, or the onslaught of worldly philosophies upon the church and its teachings; and third, the social gospel or social Christianity, which attempts to enforce its teachings thorugh coercion upon a state or nation.

Defining the three terms under consideration, Dr. Knubel said: "Syncretism says all religions are true; secularism says all religions are false and also says the state must be lord over the church; the social gospel says the church must be lord over the state."

The condemnation of these three tendencies so evident in the world today was contained in a masterly and probing analysis by the leader of the Lutheran Church in America. His denunciation of the movements among leaders of missionary enterprise of all denominations toward the incorporation into Christianity of what may be thought good in other religions of the East, may be accepted as clearly defining the attitude of American Lutherans and bearing weight in councils of the religions of the world.

The three terms—syncretism, secularism and social Christianity—"were echoed and re-echoed through the discussions of the International Missionary Council at Jerusalem last spring", declared Dr. Knubel, "until it seems that everything of importance at that meeting can be grouped around them.

"Representatives at the meeting of the Council were face to face with the question as to whether the Christian Church shall now proceed to study anew and with appreciation the religions of non-Christian lands, to compare them with the truths of the Christian faith and so to establish the priority of Christianity; or whether the values discovered in those religions might find a place in an ultimate composite Christianity; or whether there must be first a reassertion of the uniqueness of Christianity as a revelation, a gift of God.

Christianity As An Answer.

"Nothing was more gratifying at Jerusalem than the ringing emphasis upon the uniqueness of Christianity as an answer to any tendencies towards syncretism.

"Stress was laid upon secularism as constituting the chief enemy today toward missionary effort. It has invaded and pervaded the missionary countries through materialistic philosophies, through economic theories such as bolshevism, through nationalistic tendencies, and through other sources. It has weakened even the religions of these nations, has led demands for educational institutions from which religion is divorced (including missionary institutions), would naturally reduce merciful service to a merely humanitarian basis, if not worse, and would in the end permit even a national Christian Church to exist only as the tool of an utterly secularized government."

Dr. Knubel pointed out the danger in its attempt to induce governments to correct the "shocking conditions in missionary lands of a moral, social and economic character" that the Christian Church might be led to the verge of dictation to the state.

"Secularism", said Dr. Knubel, "is seen to be the enemy of the Christian Church in dealing with the non-Christian religions. Materialistic civilization is being spread over the whole planet by the West. It exercises a powerful influence upon native governments of the east in their attitude toward the establishment of Christian churches. It aims to divorce religion from education. The validity of all religions is questioned.

"As over against secularism, Christianity should not aim to offer a philosophy nor an argument. It should persistently present and exalt the church as a spiritual and eternal and divine reality. Only thus can secularism be overcome."

Church May Become Secularized.

Dr. Knubel pointed to the danger that the church might herself become secularized through attempts to use coercive methods in efforts to cure drudgery and slavery of the common people of the eastern world by secular methods.

As an example of this danger he pointed to the Pope's recent agreement with Italy, concerning which he said: "The church is lowered. The church is secularized. Her very freedom, her unrelated position, her consequent need for the establishment of agreements, reduces her to the plane of those with whom she makes engagements.

"The tendency in missionary lands towards the establishment of national churches of any type is full of the danger of secularization today. The church must not be a mere tool of nationalistic aspirations."

Turning his guns upon syncretism, Dr. Knubel said that developments toward a more sympathetic appreciation of non-Christian systems may be increasingly expected in coming years. As evidence he cited for a conference of all religions in 1930 to consider world peace, and mentioned that at the recent convention of the American Federated Council of Churches a resolution was submitted calling for the establishment of "a republic of religions" designed to bring together leaders of Christian and non-Christian sects for discussion of mutual welfare questions. However, no action was taken upon it. Other evidence of the willingness to this writing of faiths cited by Dr. Knubel was "the consistent reappearance of the idea that some ultimate and absolute religion should be sought, into which all existing religions can be merged.

"A third influence exists in the common tendency of the world today to effect huge combinations. The political, economic, business and social spheres of life seem to be busy enough with the formation of great organizations. It is natural that the same impulse should seize religion.

"A more subtle influence arises from an over emphasis upon the difference among men of different nationalities and religions. We are asked to appreciate the age-long backgrounds behind them, out from which their religions have developed, and which must be respected if the peoples are to be influenced. The implication naturally is, though not fully stated, that Christianity, at least in its present form, developed from our background and that it may well go through a process of syncretizing modification in order that it may become a better religion."

Defense Compromise With Truth.

Also Dr. Knubel advocated instead that "we must recognize whatever is the truth in those lands where missionaries come in contact with non-Christian peoples and religions. We may do even more and incorporate much else from them so long as it is not contrary to the truth. It is only a compromise of the truth which must be refused. Christianity as a gift from God is not just a system of thought, a philosophy which can be weighed against other systems and be tempered or altered by them. The revelation, the truth, the Word of God, is divine, creative energy—is dynamite. It is only by recognition of the Word of God as a living, life-giving, divine force that we can save ourselves from dangerous entanglements with that which does not possess divine energy.

"On the one hand stand social gospel, secularism and syncretism; on the other, Christ and the church and the means of grace. In them is our lasting confidence. We must advocate among other Christians the general advancement of a purer Christianity throughout the world."

Keep this in mind when you trade in your car

THAT one dealer may offer you a larger allowance than another does not necessarily mean that he is giving you the best deal.

You will buy most advantageously to yourself if you remember these basic facts:

A trade-in transaction is a purchase, not a sale. You are simply applying your present car as a credit against the price of the new car.

Your present car has only one fundamental basis of value: what the dealer can get for it in the used car market. It seems to have different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.

An excessive allowance may mean that you will be paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value. In other words, the new car may be priced to permit the extra allowance.

Consider first the merits of each new car as compared with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then consider the various allowances offered on your present car.

WOODSTOCK PLAY HOUSE OFFERS NEW ATTRACTION.

W. Somerset Maugham's comedy drama, "The Constant Wife," in which Miss Ethel Barrymore scored such a notable success at its initial presentation in New York, will be the second dramatic offering at the Woodstock Play House beginning Thursday evening and to be repeated on the evenings of Friday and Saturday.

Manager David Reasoner announces that the Barrymore role in "The Constant Wife" will be played by Miss Jane Meredith, well known to and held in high regard by Woodstock theatregoers.

During the past four seasons Miss Meredith played leading roles at the Maverick Theatre and last season was the guest star in the presentation of "Maya," considered by many the high water mark of Maverick presentations. Miss Meredith is no stranger to the role of Constance Middleton the heroine of "The Constant Wife," having played it successfully as recently as June of last year. Broadway theatregoers well remember Miss Meredith for her outstanding performances in those two smashing New York successes, "One Man's Woman" and "Enter Madame." She was also featured in such plays as "Six Characters in Search of an Author," "Mr. Romeo," "His Chinese Wife," "The Evergreen Lady" and "Blind Alleys," and also played the role of Sadie Thompson in the stage adaptation of W. Somerset Maugham book of that name and produced under the title of "Rain."

Supporting Miss Meredith in the presentation of "The Constant Wife" will be Elizabeth Pendelton, Jeanne De Me, Sara Haden, Thelma, Paige, Richard Abbott, Philip Brandon and John Ravold.

The play is directed by Don Mullally.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Charming Morning Frock.

The Pattern for this frock is cut in 4 sizes: Small, 34-36; medium, 38-40; large, 42-44; extra large, 46-48 inches bust measure. To make this model for a medium size will require 3⅛ yards of 36-inch material. To finish with bias binding or piping as illustrated requires 4 yards. The width of the frock at the lower edge with plaits extended is 1¾ yard.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Fashion Book Notice.

Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date Spring and Summer 1929 Book of Fashions showing color plates, and containing 500 designs of ladies', misses' and children's patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 30 of the various simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

Furs Enter Dye Pot to Add Seasonable Chic

Color has not overlooked furs in its effort to make a bright and cheerful spring wardrobe. Fox scarfs are now dyed in new beiges, blues, ashes of roses and platinum tones. Natural red fox and natural cross fox are also popular.

Lapin coats in sports styles—many of them with the short jacket—are also adopting these new colors. A recent collection included other shades, such as parchment and nutria shades, with either Johnny or cravat collars.

Considerable interest is aroused by lined foxes in stole effects, and these versions are expected to lead the fox scarf demand. However, prominence is accorded fur scarfs of all types, and it is reported that successful results have been experienced. Two and three-skin sables are quoted as increasing in interest.

Light at the Poles

In speaking of the period of darkness at the poles, complete darkness is not implied, but rather a sort of twilight. There is sufficient light for ordinary activities to be carried on.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

Elaborate Fabrics Call For Simple Silhouettes.

New York.—Just as one begins to think that the straight line dress has entirely disappeared from smart places, along comes a particularly well dressed woman wearing a frock which if not actually straight, is certainly so by comparison. Curiously enough such a dress bore a Louiseboulanger label. Louiseboulanger of all women! For it was she who had the first success with the long back, decided bouffant type!

It seems to work out in the minds of a designer that if the lines of the dress are simple, the material should not be, while, if the lines are involved, the material must be of the simplest consistent with the prevailing urge for elegance.

Since there is an effort being put forth to interest smart folk in embroidered materials, and since there are rumors of metallic fabrics for fall, it may be reasonable to suppose that such silhouettes as will show to greatest advantage the beauty of the fabric not to mention the figure, will be approved.

Latest advices from Paris tell of shallow V decolettes and even of camisole necklines or those with built up, although narrow, shoulder straps. This seems a direct contradiction to the evidences at hand of interest in soft necklines, yet the season offers both.

While evening dresses are distinctly longer at some point, there is a marked tendency to even the hem, this is done not by subtraction, but by addition so that a common level is on the descent. Lines are accentuated the slightly higher waistline being instrumental in producing the added length.

(Copyright, 1929, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

The money spent in 1914 to run the French government finally has been approved. The war interrupted the auditing of the books.

MANY MERGERS.

At the present high frequency of mergers in all lines of business and industry, great and small, it will soon be a matter of big news when the papers can chronicle "No Mergers Today." There are mergers of food corporations, banks, hotels, automobile manufacturers, airplane concerns, entertainment organizations, and so on. Only consumers seem to lack the desire or ability to merge themselves into one or two powerful groups.

What's it all about, anyhow, and is it a dangerous or a harmless development? Will these mergers and super-mergers benefit the nation—or the world? Most of us don't know. It makes us a little giddy just to keep track of which group is merging on which day. Belief in social and industrial evolution—changes and growth according to the needs and temper of the times—is reassuring. The merger may be an inevitable accompaniment of our current civilization. When it no longer fits conditions, something else will take its place.

PICNIC FOOD.

A picnic lunch used to be a very fussy array of food. There were sandwiches of many varieties which were made at home and wrapped in endless sheets of oiled paper. There was usually a very elaborate layer cake with frosting, which was a delight to the children, but meant a lot of work in making, packing and defending from insect invaders. There was potato salad. There were deviled eggs, which meant more work for the lunch-packer.

Such lunches are far from common today. The more frequent modern picnic array consists of meat in the form of steaks, bacon or "wieners" to be cooked at an open fire at the scene of the feast. The fancy sandwiches are replaced by rolls or buns into which the sizzling meat is popped when it is withdrawn from the fire. The fussy cake is replaced by cookies or cup cakes or doughnuts—which are easier to carry and easier to eat under outdoor conditions than the cake. Eggs go along hard boiled and still in their shells, or uncooked, ready to be scrambled in a frying pan over the bonfire.

There are many variations of the picnic lunch. Some people still must labor hard over their fun. But observation indicates that the simplified lunch has come in along with simplified outdoor clothing and a more genuine enjoyment of nature's charms.

A HOMESICK DIPLOMAT.

Ambassador Fletcher, our diplomatic representative at Rome, is reported as frankly confessing that he is homesick. In some quarters this news has been regarded as a good sign, as an indication that he is still well qualified to represent his own country, unlike some of our diplomats who are said to have become so enamored of the foreign countries to which they are accredited that their capacity for real usefulness deteriorates. Apart from such considerations Ambassador Fletcher's nostalgia is an interesting reminder of the pull on the average man's heartstrings of the land of his birth. In this country's pioneer period an English writer rather contemptuously observed that nostalgia must be a fearful disease on the banks of the Missouri River, but Italy has many charms, including beauty of scene, treasures of art and far-reaching historical associations. For which reason one is the more reminded of Sir Walter Scott's "dead-souled" man who has never said "this is my own, my native land."

And yet the country of adoption may eclipse the homeland in its drawing power. This has often been observed in the case of immigrants. During their first sojourn in the United States there may be little to please them, but a brief visit to the homeland is often enough to change their view and cause them to return gladly to America. This is not so much because of special advantages here as because they have become adjusted to the new scene. Africa seems to be another country of great drawing power. Colonials in South Africa, after longing for years to return to England, often find that one brief visit to the old home is enough to make them eager to go back to the far land of their adoption, to which they have become adjusted. Such change in affection is fortunate, for otherwise the waste places of the world could never be built up.

In the Reichstag the other day a speaker severely criticized a foreign country. He did not mention it by name, but said it was composed of forty-eight states, had stars on its flag, and elected an engineer as its President. Doubtless not a few Germans are still wondering what country he meant.

Evidently the silk knee breeches of court custom which his two American predecessors adopted were too much for Ambassador Dawes, for it is announced that he appeared at Buckingham Palace in ordinary evening clothes. Whether his pipe figured at the function is not stated.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By JAMES W. BARTON, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

EMOTIONS AND POISONING.

Perhaps you have had what is called an attack of ptomaine poisoning with nausea, vomiting, and intense pain in abdomen.

You try to remember just what you have eaten the previous twenty-four hours and you are often at loss to decide just what food or foods might have caused the trouble.

Now in the majority of cases it is often some article of food that has caused the symptoms, but quite often it is yourself, your condition of mind or body that is responsible.

You ate the food at a time when your condition of mind and body was not in shape to take care of it, and the food remained undigested for many hours.

You will remember that the sight, and smell of food excites the digestive juices in the mouth, in the stomach, and in the pancreas. This is what is called brain digestion because it is the eyes, the mouth, and the nose, that start the digestive juices flowing. This is sometimes called appetite juice.

Now in the same manner these juices can be affected by worry, tiredness, fright, anger or other depressing emotions, and the juices are prevented from flowing properly.

And the unfortunate part about it is that even if you are worried, tired, or depressed, your body needs food just the same.

So if you eat food when in this condition it may remain undigested and cause distress; and if you don't eat you will get weak.

What should be done?

You should try to rest for a few minutes before eating. Lying on the right side is best.

Don't eat if you are very tired. Rest first.

Try to eat the article of food that you like, that are easily digested, spread your meals well apart, so that you will have fewer attacks of "ptomaine" with its accompanying pain and intestinal distress.

PATRIOTIC PROGRAM FOR ULSTER PARK GRANGE

Ulster Park, July 3.—A patriotic program that promises to be of great interest to every member of Ulster Grange, No. 969, has been arranged by Mrs. Raphael Klein for tonight's meeting. It consists of a lecture on Boy Scout work and a moving picture entitled, "The Benefactor," which depicts the life of Thomas A. Edison.

The lecture on Boy Scout work and the part it plays in building character and good American citizens will be given by Howard N. Smith, Ulster County Boy Scout executive. Mrs. Klein feels fortunate in securing Mr. Smith, who is noted as an interesting lecturer on the Boy Scout topic. His talks have been enjoyed by various organizations of Ulster county.

To make the lecture even more interesting, Mr. Smith, who is known to his boys as Chief, will have some of them with him to give exhibitions of Scout work. The exhibition by the boys will consist of a flag drill, salute to the flag, a demonstration of knot tying, signalling, first aid, fire by flint and fire by friction demonstrations.

After the Boy Scout program will be the moving picture, "The Benefactor," which is said to be an amazing and educational film. It shows many events in the life of Thomas Edison.

It is hoped that every Ulster Granger will attend Wednesday's meeting and enjoy the program, which will be followed by the serving of refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Harold V. Story are in charge of the latter feature.

For the Love of a Lady

by Jeffery Farnol

SYNOPSIS: Sir Julian Guyford appreciates the worth of his ward, Helene, to carry on a traffic of blackmail against women. Sir Richard discovers it through an accusation by Helen D'Arcy, a beautiful heiress. He battles his enemy, with a horsewhip and promptly receives a challenge to duel. Captain Despard and Sir Richard Brocklehurst give both time to woo the unlucky heiress by forcing Helen into marriage. Julian faces treachery and places a mysterious note in a pistol-barrel. Richard befriends a little gypsy girl—and is about to receive the uncommon reward.

Chapter 9

A SMILE FROM DIANA

MR. BATTLEBY hesitated, made as if to speak, thought better of it, gulped and went; whereupon the little gypsy hooted in shrill derision until Sir Richard closed her rosy mouth with finger and thumb.

"Not so, madam!" said he, "suffer the fellow to go; Shuri, if you must poach, why not keep to Guyfford's?"

"'Cause there be's so precious little to poach there!"

"Ay, true enough, child," he answered and glancing up saw Helen approaching across the green; but, marvel of marvels, she was smiling, while in her grey eyes was such a look as woke in him a growing wonderment.

"So you are not drunk, Sir Richard!" said she, at last.

"The day is still young," he answered, but Helen shook her head.

"I begin to find you out," she retorted. "And pray who is this?"

"An elfin, ma'm; a sprite dared to trespass on Sir John Parret's sacred precincts."

"And the reason why you knocked down Sir John Paret's loud-voiced bailiff. And what is your elfin's name?"

"Shuri Camlo—or Lovel. Stand up, child," he commanded, "make your reverence to the lady."

So the child made a bobbing curtsey.

"A pretty child!" said my lady. "Wilt come to me, Shuri?"

"No!" answered Shuri.

"And why not, child?"

"Bekos I likes him best."

"Now tell me, Shuri, why do you like him best?"

"Bekos he be's a man for sure. "I likes you too when you laughs!" said she and then she sniffed suddenly.

"Oh—bacon! And I do be famished, brother!"

"So am I!" said my lady.

Sir Richard forthwith called: "House, Jonas, house!"

And forth rolled a cheery man who beamed and cocked a jovial eye; but beholding my lady he halted, somewhat taken aback.

"Jonas, we want breakfast at once—in the garden among your flowers."

And thus, with the gypsy child between them, they came into the garden behind the tavern.

In a shady corner of the garden, deep-bowered in honeysuckle, was an arbour, beholding which Shuri laughed and capered in elfin joy and drew my lady and Sir Richard thither; and here presently came Jonas, the landlord, bearing a well-laden tray.

Sir Richard, forgetful of the savoury viands before him, sat viewing my lady with thoughtful eyes, until Shuri finally spoke:

"Oh, brother, be's us never going to eat?"

Sir Richard started and took up knife and fork, my lady laughed and commenced to pour the coffee.

So they breakfasted together right merrily, by reason of little Shuri's trilling laughter, impish looks and odd questions; a truly memorable meal, more especially for Sir Richard, who beheld the transformation of stately goddess into unaffected girl; indeed my lady was a revelation, wherefore he watched her and forgot all else.

"Oh, brother, why d'ye stare at her so hard?" inquired the child suddenly.

"Do I, Shuri? Madam is quite used to being stared at."

He looked into those grey eyes that met his with such passionless serenity.

"Juno or Minerva—which?" he questioned.

"Either, sir, or anything rather than your 'roaring boy in petticoats!' Fie, Sir Richard, am I so fierce, so—so inhuman?"

"This morning, my lady, I discover in you certain o' the humanities—soft looks, little kindnesses, unexpected tendernesses——"

"Oh, la, sir, you overwhelm me!"

"'Fore heaven, ma'm, you puzzle me!"

"Only because you are the merest man—and wear a coat to match your reputation!"

"You mean that both are shabby, ma'm?"

"I mean that you are proud of them, sir! You flourish 'em, sir, you flaunt 'em in the face o' the universe with braggadocio air! To be viewed askance by your neighbours, to be avoided by your class, ill-spoken of by the world in general—this affords you a perverse joy; in fine, Sir Richard, I find you very—young—and consequently—foolish, sir. And yet, sir——"

Richard, fascinated by Helen's gracious smile, stared at her intently.

"Well, ma'm?"

"Despite this youthful bravado, I sense some small promise of better things—should you ever grow up."

Thus they talked, viewing each other with dispassionate yet growing interest until little Shuri, having finished her meal, looked about for something to amuse her, and thus espied Sir Richard's ring, a signet-ring he wore upon his left hand; therefore she began to touch and caress this hand very gently, finally contrived to slip off the ring altogether and sat staring at the shining thing in gleeful ecstacy, until it slipped, fell to the floor and rolled out of the arbour.

Thus Sir Richard was presently aware of a startled cry. "Eh!" he exclaimed. "Why, where's the child?"

"Oh, brother, here I be's—come quick! A big man goes for to take your ring!"

Up rose Sir Richard, wondering, stepped out of the arbour and came face to face with Captain Despard, a resplendent figure from top to toe, who stood with the ring on his palm. The captain tendered the ring with a profound obeisance.

"Ah, Sir Richard," said he, "'tis a quaint piece." Sir Richard took the ring, slipped it upon his finger and bowed in turn.

"Shuri!" cried a voice and they beheld an old woman watching them. Tall and gaunt she was, and bore herself with a strange pride, at sight of whom the child uttered a joyous greeting and next moment was folded in the woman's long arms; for a moment they talked together, then, clasping Shuri's hand, the old woman approached Sir Richard.

"For my dearie Dubbieskey," said she with solemn gesture, "Truffeni Camlo calls blessing on ye Guyfford o' Weare. . . . But old Truffeni, as has 'the sight,' warns ye. Look ye now, and mark! . . . One!" and she stabbed finger at Despard. "Two!" and pointed at my lady. "Three!" at Sir Richard. "And three shall, one day, be two—but I hear Death creep in the green—a dead man—and one as runs for hiding to the poor folk. See—look yonder!" And she pointed to a strange, small black cloud. "Death!" she whispered. "I see fetters—a prison cell—— Ah, but true love shall find a way! And—see there, Guyfford o' Weare—above ye! 'Tis the Hand o' Glory!"

Sir Richard saw the small cloud, sailing directly above him, now glowed with a great and wonderful radiance.

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, July 3.—Guests from Mohonk who enjoyed the comfortable temperature of Mohonk over last week end were surprised on their return to find New Paltz sweltering in the heat. Laurel is in its glory at Mohonk. The deer paddock, Lake Shore drive and the artists' lodge near the bowling alleys are said to be specially favored places. Mr. Goddard of Mountain Rests reports all cottages booked for the entire season. Riding and driving have been popular at Mohonk. The road mileage is almost equivalent to the distance from Mountain Rest to within twelve miles of Albany and so it takes a great many workmen to keep the mountain roads in order. Many people are taking advantage of the staging department to enjoy the outdoor freedom of Mohonk. The Bulletin states that swimming was unusually popular for the early season.

Frank Wissel of Brooklyn is in New Paltz opening up his summer home on upper Main street. After July Fourth his family will join him for the summer. Mr. Wissel is the advance agent in New York city and Brooklyn for the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus and the 101 Ranch. Zach Miller of the 101 Ranch has presented Mr. Wissel's 13 year-old daughter, Ida, with a saddle horse, which will soon be seen on the village streets. Mr. Wissel is an animal trainer by profession.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Steen of Balmville were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hasbrouck last Sunday.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Halmshaw left on Monday for their summer cottage at South Bristol, Maine. Mr. Halmshaw will be away for two Sundays.

Miss Florence Wynkoop of Leibhardt has been visiting in town.

Mrs. Nelson Kelly of Walden, formerly of New Paltz, was in town on Monday. Mr. Kelly is quite ill in the hospital at Newburgh.

The first Sunday service was conducted in the new Methodist Church Sunday morning, June 23, by the minister, the Rev. J. Robert Halmshaw. His subject was "Altars and Fires." He said that any man could build an altar or even a whole church, but only God could light the fires. The whole sermon was very instructive. The evening service was musical, led by the choir. The program began with Prelude by choir and organ. Call to Worship by the pastor and choral response. Hymn, congregation. Invocation, pastor, and choral response. Offertory and announcements. Men's chorus, "Prayer of Thanksgiving." Chorus, "Send Out Thy Light." Solo, "His Love Abideth Forever." Mrs. George W. Wicks. Chorus, "O Pray for the Peace of Jerusalem." Violin solo, Perry Berago. Chorus, "The Silent Sea." Quartet, "Jesus Meek and Gentle," Mrs. S. W. Kevan, Mrs. George Wicks, George Wicks, George A. Newton. Women's chorus, "The Good Shepherd." Solo, "Lord We Draw Near Thee," Mrs. S. M. Kevan. Chorus, "Thou Wilt Keep Him in Perfect Peace." Duet, "The Lord is My Shepherd," Mrs. S. M. Kevan and Mrs. George Wicks. Chorus, "Behold God is My Salvation." Trio, "Evening Prayer." Chorus, "Bless Thou the Lord." Chorus, "Saviour, Like a Shepherd Lead Us." Chorus, "Gloria." Benediction by the pastor.

Mrs. Carrie Mae Cauley, who has been living in the Gulnac house, will soon go to live with her daughter, Mrs. Sears, in Marlborough.

Pardee Expounds New Liability Law

The New York Automobile Operators' and Owners' Financial Responsibility Law enacted this year, which becomes effective September 1 next, should be of material aid both in promoting safety on the New York highways and in making more certain the payment of damages for personal injury or property damage, A. D. Pardee, of the Pardee's Insurance Agency, stated today. In order to dispel some of the misunderstandings that have arisen, Mr. Pardee gave the following explanation of the workings of the act.

The act provides that where a person has been convicted of or has pleaded guilty to reckless driving or speeding, where injury to person or property actually results therefrom, unlicensed operating or driving, driving while intoxicated, or going away without stopping after an accident, or has been convicted of an offense in any other state which, if committed in New York state, would be a violation of these provisions of the New York law, the license of such an operator or the certificate of registration of such owner shall be suspended and remain suspended unless he furnishes proof of his ability to pay damages up to $5,000 for personal injury or death involving one person, and $10,000 for personal injury or death involving more than one person, and $1,000 for property damage, to secure future judgments which may be rendered in actions arising out of the negligent operation of the motor vehicle in question. This proof may take the form of a liability insurance policy or a bond, or cash or suitable securities may be deposited with the State Department of Taxation and Finance.

The same suspension of operator's license or owner's certificate of registration will be applied to any person against whom a judgment for damages has been rendered in an action arising out of the negligent operation of a motor vehicle when such judgment remains unsatisfied for fifteen days from the date when the judgment has become final; but in this case, the person against whom the judgment has been rendered must not only furnish proof of financial responsibility for future accidents, but must satisfy the judgment already rendered unless he is relieved by a discharge in bankruptcy to the extent of $5,000 for injury to one person, $14,000 for injuries to two or more persons in one accident, and $1,000 for damage to property.

The securing of an insurance policy after an accident and subsequent unsatisfied judgment, or the furnishing of other satisfactory proof of financial responsibility, will not be sufficient to reinstate an operator's license or registration certificate, but the holder of this license or certificate must also satisfy the judgment already rendered up to the amount named. If the proof of financial responsibility furnished is in the form of liability and property damage insurance, that insurance must cover all motor vehicles registered in the name of the person in question, and the insurance must be written by a company which has been admitted to do business in the state of New York, as policies issued by non-admitted companies do not satisfy the law.

The payment of damages up to the limits named, and the furnishing of proof of financial responsibility for future accidents up to the same limits, are sufficient to satisfy the law so far as removal or suspension of an operator's license or owner's certificate is concerned, but if the judgment rendered is in excess of these amounts, the person in question will still be liable for the excess, and judgment above the amounts named will still be enforceable if the person has any property from which it can be satisfied.

This law applies to non-residents using the highways of New York as well as to residents of the state, both as to violation of a motor vehicle law and failure to satisfy judgment. If a non-resident has an accident involving personal injury or property damage from which a judgment results, and this judgment is not satisfied according to the requirements of the New York law, his privilege to drive on the highways of New York state will be taken away from him, and will not be restored until the judgment is so satisfied and he furnishes the same proof of financial responsibility for future accidents as is required of a New York driver or owner.

In Mr. Pardee's opinion, the results of the operation of this new law will be of great interest not only to the people of New York state but to those of other states, and especially so far as they show any effect upon the occurrence of motor vehicle accidents. While it is highly important that persons injured through the negligent operation of motor vehicles should be able to recover damages in reasonable amounts, it is far more important that the toll of life and limb due to the use of motor vehicles should be cut down.

History of Goldfish

The first goldfish was bred from the Asiatic Crucian carp by the Chinese, who took 500 years to develop the goldfish from it. Later elaborated forms were produced by the Japanese who took over the breeding of goldfish for commercial purposes.

TO GET MR. MOTH, ONE MUST BE THOROUGH.

The reason most folks are unable completely to rid their homes of moths, is because they do not do a thorough job. Moths build their nests and hatch their young in the dark and warm interior of your furniture or your best woolen coat. When applying an insecticide against moths, see that it is introduced into the interior of the furniture and reaches every part of woolen garments, even inside of pockets. The moth accounts for millions of dollars' worth of unnecessary damage each year. A thorough job with a good insecticide or spray is the surest preventive.

do you shout the name of your car or whisper it ?

When you have finished discussing politics and the home team's batting slump and the conversation turns to automobiles, you naturally would rather be an orator than an auditor. And when you are asked the name of your car, you want to shout it, not whisper it.

The driver of a Chrysler-built De Soto Six is proud to talk about his car in any company, for its name is accepted as a badge of real quality. Although De Soto Six sells for as low as $845, the price needs no apology from the owner. He found that he did not have to go higher to purchase complete motoring satisfaction.

Above all else, De Soto gives a real foundation for pride of ownership. This pride must be based on something more than mere transportation, nowadays. It can be inspired only by a car that conforms to every high standard of performance, appearance, comfort, durability and safety.

People take it for granted that an automobile will get you there and back, that it started in life with a presentable coat of paint and that it has its quota of gimcracks and knick-knacks. The test of its value is how much it exceeds these minimum requirements. The stricter the test, the more evident is De Soto's superiority.

Ask for a demonstration and learn for yourself why De Soto Six owners like to "talk automobile."

John had become the proud owner of a pig and instead of caring for it himself, after a few weeks, his father noticed that the animal did not appear to thrive and remarked:

"John, I'm afraid you are not feeding your pig enough. It doesn't seem to be fattening at all."

"I don't want it to fatten yet," answered the young stockman. "I'm waiting until he gets as long as I want him, then I'll begin to widen him out."

Avoid Soothing Syrup

Never give children soothing syrups to make them sleep. Find the reason why the child does not fall asleep or sleeps restlessly and correct the fault. Often it is a too heavy meal, or excited play before retiring.

Sullivan-Clinton Indian Expedition

Four Parts of Campaign Which Culminated in Battle of Minisink—Interesting History Recalled as Battle Anniversary Nears.

The Sullivan-Clinton Expedition against the Six Nations and their allied Loyalists of which the battle of Minisink was a part, captured the imagination of the American people. It awakened the tremendous interest and was the theme of conversation all along the Atlantic seaboard. The newspapers of the day discussed it at great length. The novelty and uniqueness of this campaign against the red men in the wilderness with the strange sights and new experience produced one result which did not characterize any other movement in the Revolution to so great a degree.

A brief survey of each one of the four parts of the campaign will enable one to visualize what took place and to see how successfully, for the most part, the expedition was carried out.

For the preliminary drive against the Onondagas in the early spring of 1779, General Clinton ordered troops from the Schoharie and Mohawk valleys to proceed to Fort Schuyler, where Colonel Goose Van Schaick's First New York Regiment and a company of artillery were stationed. These groups of Oneidas and Tuscaroras came to the fort and asked to be permitted to join the expedition. On April 16 the Indians, accompanied by American officers—Lieutenant McClennan and Ensign Hardenburg with two sergeants—set off on an independent movement.

The next day, April 19, Colonel Van Schaick, Lieutenant Colonel Willett and Major Cochran with 558 men and officers set out down Wood creek and across Lake Oneida. The army then marched across land to Onondaga lake and up Onondaga creek, where the Onondaga Indian villages were located. One account states that between 30 and 40 houses were burned; 15 Indians killed; 34 captured; one white man taken; the cows, horses and hogs which could not be taken away killed; provisions destroyed; "2 stands of colors", 100 guns, a swivel, and ammunition taken or destroyed; and a large quantity of pillage obtained.

Without a single man killed or wounded, the army with the prisoners and as much plunder as could be carried was back at the boats on Lake Oneida on April 22nd. Two days later they were at Fort Schuyler. A different incursion had been made with the extraordinary expedition and with great success. Congress publicly thanked Colonel Van Schaick, his officers and men for "their activity and good conduct." This enterprise made excellent publicity for strengthening the morale for the other parts of the expedition.

Clinton's Troop Movement.

General Clinton's movement from the Mohawk to Tioga Point with about 1,600 men was quite successful. From Albany he gave orders for the various military units to rendezvous at Canajoharie. About 250 flat-bottomed boats were built at Schenectady and taken up the river to the same place. Provisions were collected in boxes and barrels not only for his own army but for that of General Sullivan as well.

During the latter part of June and early July the boats and provisions were carried over the hills by wagons from Canajoharie to the head of Lake Otsego and then taken by water to the foot of the lake where the troop assembled. The lake was dammed so as to raise the water sufficiently to float the boats down to Tioga Point. After a delay of more than a month at the foot of Lake Otsego, General Clinton with the Third, Fourth and Fifth New York Regiments, the Sixth Massachusetts Regiment, the Fourth Pennsylvania Regiment, and four companies of Morgan's Rifles received orders from General Sullivan to start south. Hence on August 9, 1779, the dam was cut, the boats with their heavy loads of supplies were floated on the Susquehanna, and the impatient army started for Tioga.

Contrary to expectations, few Indians were encountered on the journey. A number of deserted Indian towns were destroyed together with their gardens and corn fields. On August 19th General Clinton met General Poor, who had been sent forward to meet him, and on August 22nd General Clinton's army was welcomed at Tioga Point with cheers and salvos of artillery. The movement had been executed quickly and without serious mishap.

Col. Brodhead's Force.

Meanwhile Colonel Daniel Brodhead following instructions had left Fort Pitt on August 11th with 605 "rank and file" to invade the Seneca country and to form a juncture with General Sullivan and General Clinton at some point in the Genesee region. He took one month's provision, which was forwarded by boat up the Allegheny river. With live stock and pack horses, and accompanied by Delaware Indians as spies and scouts, Colonel Brodhead took his army over a shorter route northward by land.

No fighting occurred on the route except a skirmish with a band of 30 or 40 Indian warriors. The Indian villages on the upper Allegheny river were deserted by the inhabitants just before the arrival of American troops. A large amount of plunder was secured and then the houses were burned and about 500 acres of corn and vegetables destroyed.

From the indefinite records it is difficult to determine the farthest point reached by Colonel Brodhead's expedition but it seems very probable that the present border line between New York and Pennsylvania was crossed. Both General Sullivan and Colonel Brodhead sent messengers to the other but apparently they did not get through in time to be of service in effecting a union. Brodhead's scouts sent to Sullivan did not return until Brodhead had returned to Fort Pitt. In this state of uncertainty, and many of the men being "barefooted and naked", Colonel Brodhead returned over a different route, destroying more Indian villages as he proceeded, and reached Fort Pitt on September 4th without loss of either "man or beast".

Gen. Sullivan's Task.

The major force of the expedition was mobilized at Easton, Pa. To that point marched troops from New England, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania. After his appointment as head of the expedition early in March, 1779, General Sullivan devoted his time to make preparations for the enterprise. Food supplies had to be assembled to supplement those of General Clinton. The exact route had to be determined. Cattle and horses had to be collected. Boats had to be obtained or built. A road had to be cut over the mountain to Wyoming.

On May 7th General Sullivan reached Easton, after part of his army had crossed Sullivan county, where he assembled about 3,500 men in three brigades under General Maxwell, General Hand and General Poor. On June 18th General Sullivan moved towards Wyoming, which was reached on June 23rd. He had expected to be met there by a fleet of boats laden with supplies but was deeply disappointed. Hence he was delayed at Wyoming for over five weeks while boats and supplies were with much difficulty obtained. It was not until July 31st that the expedition was ready to proceed, and Tioga was reached August 11th. After the juncture with General Clinton's army on August 22nd, no time was lost in proceeding forward along the main line of attack.

Last Stand of Indians.

After re-arranging the brigades so as to place regiments under their customary commanders as nearly as could be done, and transferring the supplies from the boats to the 1,200 pack horses, the army, delayed one day by rain, started from Tioga on August 26th. The Battle of Newton occurred near the present city of Elmira on August 29th. It was dramatic but the fatalities on both sides were not large. The Indians and Loyalists were driven from the field and pursued for some distance. The red men were frightened by the cannon which they called "thunder trees." This victory practically settled the fighting of the whole campaign, for the Indians never made another stand.

From Newtown the army hurried forward through what is now Horseheads and Montour Falls, along the eastern shore of Seneca Lake to Geneva, and thence through Conondaigua and Honeoye to old Genesee Castle, the western extremity of the expedition, which was reached on September 14th, less than three weeks after leaving Tioga.

The ambush of Boyd and Parker and their companions was the only engagement after Newtown resembling a skirmish. On September 17th, feeling that his orders had been executed, General Sullivan began his return journey over the same route. On the way back parties were sent down two sides of Cayuga lake, and Colonel Gansevoort with a body of troops cut across to Fort Stanwix. On September 30th the expedition reached Tioga.

With the exception of the capture of the forts at Oswego and Niagara the objectives of the Sullivan-Clinton Campaign were all realized. The hostile Senecas and Cayugas were terribly punished. Their homes were burned, their vast cornfields and gardens were all destroyed, and their orchards were cut down or killed. Food supplies upon which the British depended were now unavailable. The frontier settlements of New York and Pennsylvania felt secure. But the most important result was that now when peace was signed the Americans would have a pretext for holding these western lands into which within a few years thousands of settlers were to find new homes.

"The nation-wide acclaim with which the Chrysler is heralded is due to the quick appreciation of a motor-wise public that here at last is a car which is a marked departure from all earlier practice and performance. + + In distinctive appearance, in performance ability, in economy of operation, in fine standards of manufacturing, in roadability, in driving convenience, in supreme quality, motor car experts give the Chrysler a place apart. + + For the Chrysler is more than a great engineering feat—it is, literally, the culmination of all past engineering experience."

TRUE FIVE YEARS AGO AND STILL TRUE

Daring to go back five years when the first Chrysler appeared, Chrysler can read without apology every promise made then, for every promise has been fulfilled.

In 1924 Chrysler was new. Its claims for performance, economy and stamina had not been proved valid by the hundreds of thousands of cars and millions of miles of driving that support today's leadership.

True, the automotive industry was startled by Chrysler innovations. The public trend was to Chrysler if only because Chrysler instantly out-moded other cars. Comprehensive tests had convinced Chrysler engineers that they had built a superior product. Chrysler owners before long discovered that the car upheld every promise made for it, and their eagerness to testify to its speed, its power and its strength resulted in the prevailing world-wide acceptance of Chrysler.

Now, in 1929, the public's confidence in Chrysler is still unwavering. You, too, will discover the reasons for this increasing acceptance of Chrysler leadership in quality and value if you will test the car yourself.

New Addition to Oldsmobile Line

Southard-Reichert, Inc., local Oldsmobile-Viking dealers, are displaying for the first time a new Oldsmobile convertible roadster with several new ideas in body design. The car has just been announced as an addition to the Oldsmobile line.

The feature of this entirely new body type is the dashing, sportive lines of the car when used as an open roadster and snug comfort provided when transformed into a closed car. The change can be made quickly and easily.

The sport lines of the new Oldsmobile are emphasized by its lowness, which is obtained without loss of headroom by placing the seat at floor level. This feature is further enhanced by the snug fold of the top and the type windshield used, which can be folded flat over the cowl.

Another departure from the ordinary is the design of the windshield which consists of a single unit of plate glass set in a solid brass casting frame. The doors are equipped with plate glass windows set in steel frames which lower into the doors when the car is used as a roadster.

The front seat is upholstered in genuine tan pi-grain leather. The cushions are assembled on the frames and can be removed. Chromium plating is extensively used on the exterior fittings, including deck guard rails, door garnish rails, weather strip channels, landau bars, window frames, and windshield frame.

FROHMAN ENJOYS PLAY AT ELVERHOJ THEATRE

Several theatre parties at the Elverhoj Theatre, Milton, this week marked the opening of "Hay Fever" in honor of Daniel Frohman, veteran New York producer, and Edith Barrett, star of "Young Woodley," who goes to the Berkshires to do Romeo and Juliet with Rollo Peters. The Scouts entertained for Miss Barrett and the Elverhoj company and A. H. Anderson entertained for Miss Barrett and Mr. Frohman.

"Finest company on Broadway, magnificent," was the prompt comment of Mr. Frohman on the Elverhoj Company in which radio is Anne Davenport Seymour, his friend and protege. "In a city of 2,000,000 they would be a sensation. . . In the country they must be even more so."

Mr. Frohman saw the closing performance of "Woodley" and remained for the opening of "Hay Fever," Noel Coward's smart comedy of London society which is running all this week.

"This is a magnificent company," Mr. Frohman repeated over and over, "My, how different from the day when I could rate a star under contract for two or three years and $35 a week. That was what I paid Maude Adams. Henrietta Crosman got $45 a week. But of course money went far in those days."

Next week the play will be "Pin Passes By."

George Stump, a Vermilion, Ohio, tool maker, spent 10 years whittling a piece of telegraph pole into a locomotive standard. He values the finely carved result at $2,000.

Through the courtesy of C. R. Hall, town and country secretary of the "Y", I had the privilege of going through Camp Preumaker, the Y. M. C. A. camp for boys at Glenerie. When I was at the camp about two years ago, all that I saw was a "jungle" of brush, a lake, beautiful falls and a grove of splendid white birch trees. It was a splendid place for a boys' camp. When I went out the other day I was frankly surprised at the transformation which had taken place. A large lodge has been erected (while the boys are there it is used for kitchen, camp directors' offices, hospital and "mess" hall), backed by the white birch grove and facing the lake. A slight haze had settled over the mountain tops and all in all it presented a very fine picture. About two hundred feet to the right of the lodge there have been erected several bungalows (14x16) which Mr. Hall told me hold eight fellows and a leader each. These are erected about two feet from the ground and are all screened-in so that insects, which so often spoil a summer's vacation, are kept out. I went down to the "swimmin" hole and found a dock built up with a heavy foundation of rocks on the end of it is a diving board while on each side there are anchored the five white rowboats which belong to the camp.

Mr. Hall then showed me around the lodge. The kitchen, well stocked and with everything handily arranged, was probably the most interesting spot in the lodge. Mr. Raftery, the chef, treated me to as fine a piece of lemon pie as I have ever eaten and then told me some of the experiences which he had had in 15 years as camp chef.

The hospital division of the lodge was also well arranged. Kenneth LeFever, a recent graduate of the New York Medical School, showed me the various things with which he was prepared to fight almost any illness which could happen to a fellow at camp. He also told me that it was a standing rule that every fellow whenever he gets an injury, no matter how slight, must report to him immediately.

While I was there Paul Cuyugan, of the Philippine Islands, and at present at student at Columbia University, spoke to me on various phases of Philippine life as compared to life in the United States. Mr. Cuyugan will spend several weeks at Camp Preumaker and will have charge of several discussion groups.

The other member of the camp staff whom I met was Coach Kias, director of athletics at the high school. He explained several days' programs which he had mapped out for the boys at camp. He also had plenty of substitute programs in case of inclement weather.

I think that the staff of the "Y" and all those who have had anything to do with building Camp Preumaker should be commended and receive the support of not only the adults of the city but also of the fellows of camp age.

SPANISH FLIER GIVES SALUTE TO RESCUERS

Gibraltar, July 3 (AP).—Major Ramon Franco, true to a flying man's instinct, took to the air again today and made an aerial salute of farewell and thanks high above the British aircraft carrier Eagle, which rescued him and his three companions from the Atlantic.

As the Spanish airman soared over Gibraltar, circled and swooped above the Eagle, the people of the town rushed to the streets and a roar of good-bye cheers ascended.

The aviators rested in Algeciras today in preparation for their country's official reception and thanksgiving in Madrid tomorrow.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 3 (AP). Heavy selling of the public utility shares, several of which dropped 2 to 6 points, temporarily, unsettled today's stock market, which was again pointed to higher ground. Curiously, the low prices of the day were recorded after the call money rate had dropped from 12 to 6 per cent. But strong buying made its appearance, particularly in the so-called "Morgan stocks," and the market was headed upward again in the early afternoon.

The mid-year stringency in call money, which sent the rate to 15 per cent on two successive days this week, passed late yesterday when the outside rate was dropped to 14 per cent. Money renewed at 12 per cent and then dropped abruptly to 8 when a large volume of funds made its appearance. Funds were available in the outside market this afternoon as low as 6 per cent.

Further indications of a definite easing in credit conditions were seen in the drop of one-eighth of one per cent in bankers' acceptances, the second drop within a week, and in the easier undertone for time money.

Weekly steel trade reviews continued to paint a rosy picture of conditions in the industry.

United States Steel Common crossed 199 to a new high record for all time. This was an overnight gain of 3 points. Other Morgan stocks in brisk demand including Union Carbide, up 7 at 120⅝, and General Electric, up 5½ at 355, both new high records; Johns Manville, up 5¼, and International Harvester, up 4½.

Eastman Kodak, Underwood Elliott Fisher and Bendix Aviation advanced 4½ to 6½ points to new records. Western Union and Motor Products each rallied 3 points, Safeway stores 6. The American Tobacco Issues, National Surety, Fidelity-Phenix Insurance, National Cash Register and several others advanced 3½ points or more.

American and Foreign Power was the hardest hit in the utility group, dropping 6 points. American Water Works, North American, Pacific Lighting, Columbia Gas, Detroit Edison, Standard Gas and Electric and National Power and Light fell 2 to 3 points before the selling was checked. On the other hand, American Power and Light jumped 7 points to a new high at 144.

An indication that the Labor government is getting into action quickly on its unemployment scheme was given by J. H. Thomas, lord privy seal, who has been given particular charge of this question. POLICE SEEK PERSON WHO
HIRED KILLERS OF MARLOW

New York, July 3 (AP).—With the story of Humbert J. Fugazy, boxing promoter, added to their fund of information, police today sought the person who hired the killers of Frank Marlow, night club owner.

Fugazy told Police Commissioner Whalen he occupied a table close to that where Marlow ate his last dinner and saw the night club owner answer a telephone call shortly before he went to his death in Flushing, Queens, ten days ago.

Fugazy appeared at police headquarters yesterday under a peremptory order from Commissioner Whalen.

After questioning Fugazy, Commissioner Whalen said:

"We have all the essential material right under our fingers. We believe we have caught up with two of the killers and are now on the trail of the third one, on whom we have excellent leads. We are positive that this third man was the one who hired the shooting—who put Marlow on the spot—and who lured him into the death car."

Whalen said Daniel Grosso and Nicholas McDermott, gunmen, who are held as material witnesses, "know all about the killing."

LEADER OF RELIGIOUS REBELS CAPTURED

Mexico City, July 3 (AP).—Dispatches from Guadalajara today said the priest, Aristeo Pedroza, alleged leader of "Cristeros" or so-called religious rebels, was captured at Arandas, Jalisco, Tuesday and executed by a firing squad after summary court martial.

Pedroza was one of the most colorful characters in the Mexican seditious movement, being known as second in command to the late General Enrique Gorostieta, chief of all the "Cristeros," who was killed in combat a few weeks ago.

He was charged frequently with having participated in the burning of the Guadalajara Mexico City passenger train in 1927 when scores of passengers and members of the train's military escort were shot or burned to death.

May Summon 4 Manufacturers

Congressional Committee Desires to Learn Four Leading Automobile Manufacturers' Views on Tariff Reduction on Cars.

Washington, July 3 (AP).—The advisability of issuing subpoenas to command the appearance before a Senate finance subcommittee of four leading automobile manufacturers to give their views on a tariff on passenger cars and trucks was being discussed today at the capitol.

Although no official announcement was made, it was said that subpoenas would be issued unless the manufacturers accepted the invitation extended Monday by Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, chairman of the metals subcommittee, to come to July 11 to testify.

The invitations were sent to Henry Ford, Alvin Macauley, president of the National Automotive Chamber of Commerce and head of the Packard Motor Company; Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors, and W. H. White, president of the White Truck Company.

The present tariff on automobiles and trucks is 25 per cent ad valorem and reports have been circulated for many months that the manufacturers would not object to a lowering or wiping out of the tariff in view of their firm hold on the world automobile market. The bill recently passed by the House made no change in the existing duty.

While interest at the capitol centered on the automobile tariff, the progress of the Senate finance committee on tariff hearings was reported to President Hoover by Chairman Smoot.

Smoot said he hoped to have the tariff bill ready for introduction when the Senate reconvenes on August 19, but was doubtful as to whether this could be accomplished.

Cochet Defeats Big Bill Tilden

Wimbledon, England, July 3 (AP).—Henri Cochet of France defeated Bill Tilden in straight sets today in the semi-finals of the British tennis championships.

The little French marvel flattened his old rival from the United States in decisive fashion by scores of 6-4, 6-1, 7-5.

The victory was the most one-sided Cochet ever scored over Tilden. Cochet beat him in straight sets in the Davis cup challenge round of last year but on that occasion Tilden won 17 games, compared to the ten he was able to capture today.

Big Bill never threatened after the first set, when he lost what seemed a golden opportunity to win the opener by allowing Cochet to pull up from 40-love against him and gain the game that sent him into the lead.

200 Homes Burned At Mill Valley

San Francisco, July 3 (AP).—Fire which cut a wide swath through the residential section of Mill Valley, across the bay from here and razed many beautiful summer homes in the wooded canyons nearby, apparently was under control today but continued to burn upward on the slopes of Mount Tamalpais, its scenic background.

The extent of the loss remained to be determined but unofficial estimated ranged from $500,000 to $1,000,000. The fire department estimates indicated that about 200 homes, including several which contained costly art and literary collections, had been destroyed or damaged badly.

A stiff breeze, which sprang up when the flames were licking the fringes of the business district, aided the army of 4,000 fire fighters in turning the conflagration away from the town shortly after midnight. The fire then leaped up Cascade Canyon, along the western slope of Mount Tamalpais, but firemen believed it would do little damage in that direction.

Dr. Poley Removes Eye of Hyena

The hyena of the West Shows, now playing on the Mutton Hollow grounds across the viaduct, had its right eye removed on Monday by Dr. Philip P. Poley, veterinarian of 33 Abeel street, who put the animal under a local anaesthetic.

It was a difficult job and required skill to perform the operation. The eye had been troubling the hyena for about six months and the sensitive condition of its head made the animal move at times when a slip of the doctor's knife might have caused harm it it had not been in skillful hands.

An employe of the show assisted Dr. Poley by lassoing the hyena and tying it to the bars of its cage. Previous to becoming the property of the West Shows the animal was in Central Park zoo.

Second Premiere At Woodstock

Pierre Henrotte Presents the Woodstock Ensemble to Music Lovers—Singer Swain Pleases — Pianist King a Newcomer.

By F. G. CLOUGH

On Tuesday evening of this week the Woodstock Playhouse enjoyed its second "premiere". The occasion was the first program of a season's music concerts and recitals by the newly organized Woodstock Ensemble under the tutelage and direction of Pierre Henrotte, concert master of the Metropolitan Opera House of New York city.

This Ensemble is composed of a number of well-known musicians, headed by Pierre Henrotte, known to Ulster county audiences for his work at the Maverick Theatre and Music Hall for a number of years.

The "first-night" for the Woodstock Ensemble drew a large audience composed of music-lovers from the Maverick, Woodstock, and nearby places. Despite the fact that the new playhouse seemed a slightly formal place for the musicians whom the audience had often heard in the rustic music hall in the woods, the program went off splendidly. Mr. Henrotte was given a rousing ovation as soon as he stepped on the platform. Mr. Henrotte presented as soloist for the evening Edwin Orlando Swain, an American baritone, whose finished performance and pleasing personality quickly won him the favor of the audience. Another newcomer, scheduled for the ensemble's summer work at this theatre, was Charles King. Mr. King's work at the piano keyboard was highly applauded; he proved himself an able and talented pianist. Mr. King is young, but his experience included "accompanist for Marion Talley."

The ensemble for the first program consisted of three strings—the violin played by Mr. Henrotte, viola played by Gerald Kunz and the cello played by Aaron Bodenhorn.

This trio selected Beethoven for their evening's presentation; they got under way in earnest in a minuetto passage, and later offered Mr. Bodenhorn, a newcomer from the Cleveland String Quartet, a chance to show his talents. Mr. Kunz handled his parts with a quiet perfectness. Of the playing of Pierre Henrotte people always speak high words; in this new theatre he appeared, as always, the master virtuoso; especially in some double-piano passages did his violin perform under his fingers with consummate skill.

The program ended with baritone selections by Mr. Swain, selections varied in origin, all proving the singer versatile. Several folk songs were presented with delightful humor. The applause of the audience was generous, but no more so than the singer's encores, for he responded to three encores before the audience would leave the theatre.

The announcement was made by the concert-master that a Mendelssohn quartet would be given next Tuesday, July 9, with piano and four stringed instruments.

Airport Here Busy Over the Holiday

With several visiting ships expected to land at the Kingston airport Thursday and Eric Lindgren making two parachute jumps, Kingstonians will have an opportunity to see a busy airport over the holiday. Lindgren, who is approaching his 1,000 mark, will make his last July Fourth jump tomorrow at the local field. His total jumps to date is over 950 and when he reaches the 1,000 mark he expects to retire although the lure of the chute may keep him in the air.

The first jump will be made at 3:30 o'clock and the second at 7:30 o'clock.

In addition to the regular ships which will be at the Powell airport for sightseeing trips some out of town ships have indicated their intention of coming to Kingston for the holiday season. Since improvements have been made at the field a number of aviators have visited the field and found it one of the best in this locality and apparently like to land their ships here.

John Krehonske, mechanic for Fred Brohan, operator of one of the planes at the local field, who was injured in an automobile crash at the junction of the Plank road and the Sawkill road on Tuesday, sustained a fractured rib but is again on duty at the field although limited as to his duty. Betty Lawrence, whose car figured in the crash, was not seriously injured although both were taken to the Kingston Hospital for treatment following the accident.

On Second Leg of Trip to Berlin

Milwaukee, July 3 (AP).—The 'Untin' Bowler, en route to Berlin from Chicago, left Maitland Field here on the second leg of its flight at 9:44 o'clock central standard time this morning, an hour and seven minutes after it landed. It headed northward.

Aboard the craft as it started its air journey across the northern wastes of Europe were two pilots, Robert H. Gast of Kentucky and Parker Cramer of Clarion, Pa., and Robert Wood, aviation editor of the Tribune.

Today's objective was Great Whale, 1,000 miles north in the Hudson Bay country, or Rupert House, 200 miles nearer, if the first goal proves too great a jump.

The explanation for the name of the ship, as given by officials at the municipal airport, is that it comes from England where a certain type of derby hat is known as a "hunting bowler". It was believed Col. R. R. McCormick took a fancy to the name and gave it to the ship, hunting being pronounced "'untin'."

The Tribune publisher could not be reached for verification. The name printed on the ship, however, is spelled with apostrophes—"'untin' Bowler".

Band Concert Here 4th of July

The first of the series of summer band concerts will be given Fourth of July evening in the rear of the Kingston High School by the J. O. U. A. M. Band. This band will play the first half of the series of concerts this summer. There will be no municipal display of fireworks this year as the common council did not favor holding the display in the rear of the high school, owing to the proximity of the two hospitals.

NO PUBLIC RECEPTIONS AT WHITE HOUSE THIS SUMMER

Washington, July 3 (AP).—Public receptions at the White House were abandoned today for the duration of the summer.

Several reasons were given, including the heat of Washington summer days and its effect upon both the President and the crowds which stand in line awaiting the opportunity to shake his hand and the fact that the executive offices are to be renovated within the next few months.

Gascos Trounce Colets And Lead Industrials

Hitting the ball hard and taking advantage of all opportunities presented the Gascos to give the Columbia-Talcliet a sound trouncing Tuesday evening at the Athletic Field. The score was 14-5 and the win put the Gascos in first place in the Industrial League.

Joe Nichols pitched the first game for the Colets. He went over for three innings, but in the fourth the Gascos started to hit his offerings freely, 16 hits in all being made off his delivery.

Quackenbush started on the mound for the Gascos and retired a man until the fifth inning when he was forced to retire in favor of Doyle. Doyle did some good relief pitching.

The hitters who caused the most trouble for Nichols were Hoffman, Wood and Sickler. Hoffman getting the longest hit of the game, a triple. He also poled a double.

The Gascos best inning was the fourth, scoring seven runs in that inning. Their first run came in the third. They also scored in the sixth and seventh.

Two errors and a single gave the Colets the first run of the game. The fourth inning saw them scoring four more.

Tagging Major League Bases

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The situation of the Cardinals is becoming more and more alarming every day, but at the current writing it appears that there is not even a situation in the American League, what with the Athletics free to wallop the Senators at will.

The champions of John Heydler's circuit dropped their sixth straight yesterday when the ambitious Pirates won by 5 to 3 at Forbes Field. The Cubs head the race by shading the Reds in Chicago, 5 to 4, in eleven rounds. By way of focusing at bit of attention on the American League, the Athletics slammed the Senators by 7 to 4 and 4 to 1, gaining half a game on the Yankees, who nosed out the Red Sox by 4 to 3 in ten innings.

The defeat of the Cardinals ran Billy Southworth's losing streak to twelve games in the last fourteen. Some of the pessimistic fear the St. Louis players are on the verge of developing the defeatist frame of mind which made it so easy for them to lose four straight to the Yankees in the last world series. The Cubs, the Pirates and the Giants are slowly but surely leaving the league champions behind in the hectic pennant fight, and even the second division yawns if the Cardinals cannot check their descent.

The Pirates annoyed the veteran Clarence Mitchell at intervals for six innings before descending upon him in the seventh for the two runs which provided the ultimate Pittsburgh margin. Sylvester Johnson checked the Buccaneer rally, but the damage already had been done. Ervin Brame permitted ten hits, one more than the Pirates made, but scattered them wisely and passed only one man against the five walks charged to Mitchell.

Suffering an inevitable reaction after their successful five-day stand in St. Louis, the Cubs faltered a bit against the Reds at Wrigley Field yesterday, but rallied sharply in the late rounds. Eppa Rixey was supreme in the pinches for eight innings, but Jack Hendricks removed him in the ninth after the first two batters to face him reached base. With this much of a start, the Bruins assaulted Adolphe Luque with sufficient vigor to score two runs to tie, and then pulled out the decision with another marker in the eleventh.

More important to the Cubs even than the victory itself, which was by no means unimportant, was the showing of Charlie Root, who pitched his best ball in many weeks. He gave way to a pinch batsman in the ninth inning rally, and Guy Bush held off the Reds for two rounds to get official credit for the victory.

By winning, the Cubs remained half a game ahead of the Pirates, and increased their margin over the Giants to four full contests. The New Yorkers took the first game of a double-header at Boston by 6 to 3 as Melvin Ott hit his twenty-third homer, but the Braves claimed title to the second, 3 to 2. The Phillies and the Robins got the afternoon off.

By overpowering the Senators in the first game and outpointing them with more finesse on Jimmy Foxx's fifteenth homer in the second, the Athletics extended their mastery of the Washingtonians to fifteen games in seventeen starts this season. The Macks incidentally stretched their lead over the Yankees and the Browns to nine and one-half games.

Ed Morris kept the Yankees on the anxious seat to the very close, and might have escaped with the decision in the regulation distance but for an error in the ninth by himself. Gehrig drove in two runs needed to tie after two were out, and Meusel ended it in the tenth with a double after Ruth had singled and advanced on a sacrifice. Waite Hoyt gave way to a pinch batsman in the ninth, and the victory went to Wiley Moore.

The Tigers were thoughtful enough of Miller Huggins's peace of mind to slug the Browns by 10 to 4. The champions thus climbed back into second place by a percentage margin, although virtually tied with the Browns. The Indians won two extra inning games from the White Sox in Cleveland, by 4 to 3 in ten innings and by 5 to 4 in eleven.

Quits Reading to Aid Hitting

FOR you who may be superstitiously inclined, here's one: If you can explain why Willie Kamm, Mr. Comiskey's $100,000 third baseler, is knocking baseballs to various and sundry parts of the South side emporium to the tune of a .350 batting mark then you are the person Willie is looking for.

Willie used to be a diligent reader, says John C. Hoffman in the Chicago News. He used to say it improved the intellect. Now he refuses to look at anything that resembles a newspaper. Superstition, you see.

"This is tough on me in some ways," Willie imagined. "To be frank with you, I don't even know what I am hitting. I know it will change my luck if I look at a newspaper."

It was only under protest that he submitted to a photographers' whims.

"Blankety blank," Willie protested, much as he would upon looking at a bridge hand full of small cards, "I know this will ruin my hitting now. You fellows are always doing something to a guy."

"But why are you hitting like this?" we insisted.

"Don't talk about it," Bill grumbled, brandishing a bat and then disappearing into the dugout as if it was wasted effort even to use a bludgeon on the empty cranium of a baseball writer. But here are some reasons why Kamm may be hitting a la Hornsby or Cobb. Take your pick.

Willie Kamm.

1. He gave up golf last winter. We are certain this will meet with the protests of many faithful golfers.

2. He doesn't crouch over the plate as much as he formerly did. To some extent his stance has been changed.

3. He is reconciled to his fate.

4. Until recently he suffered with a severe cold. Some people do better when they are not feeling well.

5. After all, Willie may be just a great hitter and the experts couldn't discover it. They wouldn't, anyhow.

6. His roommate, Bib Falk, has gone elsewhere. Was Bib a bad influence?

Pan-Ams Play Hercules July 4

The Pan-Am-Hercules series will start on July 4, when the teams meet at 3 p. m. on the Saugerties road diamond, home grounds of the Pan-Ams. Both teams are anxious to get back on the winning road after dropping two games in a row, so the tilt promises plenty of action.

A trimming by the Colonials two weeks ago and another by the Roosevelt A. C. of Newburgh last Sunday has put a fighting spirit into the Pan-Ams, who were making great progress previous to their first downfall. Captain Jimmy Merritt, absent from the lineup last Sunday, promises to have his men in winning form for the Hercules.

And the Hercules, who won the first half of the Industrial League and then dropped a game at the outset of the circuit's second portion, together with one to the Keenig All-Stars, will be in a fighting mood in order to struggle back on the path of victory.

Just who will form the battery of the teams has not been given out, but it is likely that the strongest hurlers of the nines will be sent to the box.

BASEBALL NOTES

Buffalo has sent Pitcher Eurle Proffitt to Pueblo of the Western league.

• • •

St. Paul has shipped Catcher Smith to Oklahoma City of the Western league.

Arthur Musicant, star southpaw of the City College nine, has been signed by the Philadelphia Athletics.

Chet Morrison, Lafayette pitcher, turned in his best game of the season against Lehigh, allowing two hits for a shutout.

Jack Quinn says a pitcher lasts no longer than his legs, and he spends nearly the whole winter training for the next season.

Bruce Caldwell, former Yale football star is now playing at first base for New Haven. He was an outfielder when he broke in.

• • •

Faulty stadium arrangements may cause two stampedes to a ball park where Babe Ruth plays—one to get in and one to get out.

Francis (Pug) Griffin, Omaha outfielder, was named manager of the Omaha Western league club by Barney Burch, owner.

• • •

J. M. Mann, Princeton university graduate of '79, is credited by baseball authorities with being the first pitcher to throw a curve ball.

• • •

But for a somewhat questionable decision by Umpire Harry Geisel, George Piparas would have had a no-hit game against Boston on May 13.

The draft price, from majors to minors, in organized hockey, is $5,000. Boston spent $15,000 in drafting Barry, of New Haven; Taylor, of the Boston Tigers, and Chapman, from Providence.

Cy Williams, the forty-year-old veteran outfielder of the Philadelphia Nationals, has served under 15 baseball managers, despite the fact that he has played with only two clubs, the Cubs and Phillies.

Walter Beall, former Washington sandlot pitcher, for whom the New York Yankees paid Rochester of the International league $50,000 several years ago, has been signed by the Washington club.

• • •

San Francisco, despite the fact that Pittsburgh offered a huge sum for immediate delivery of Gordon Slade, shortstop, will keep him the entire season because it figures he might help win another pennant.

• • •

The International league has six players who have been in baseball 20 or more years in Jimmy Walsh, Walter Leverenz, Jim Bagby, Everett Scott, Harry Lake and Fritz Maisel. Walsh is in his twenty-fourth season.

Guida Defeats Petrolle; Frankie Konchina Loses

At the opening of Woodcliff Park outdoor boxing arena Tuesday night, Eddie Guida, clever New York lightweight, defeated Pete Petrolle of Syracuse in the main 10-round bout. The battle was a fast session in which Guida kept after his opponent every second. He floored Petrolle for the count of eight in the second round, but was unable to repeat the trick. Guida weighed 135, Petrolle 140.

Frankie Konchina, top-notch welterweight of the New York National Guard, who has done considerable fighting in Kingston, lost out in the 10-round semi-final to Jimmy Sullivan of Florida. Sullivan, a clever boxer and the possessor of a stinging wallop, had Konchina on the verge of a knockout in the fourth round, but Frankie weathered the storm of blows and got his strength back as the fight progressed.

Konchina came into his own during the sixth round after taking a terrible beating for the first five stanzas. Sullivan pecked away at his face in the early rounds and had Frankie bleeding profusely during the fourth round. The Florida boy's defense was too much for the Ft. Jay soldier, who was unable to land his famous "haymaker." Konchina tipped the scales at 165 Sullivan at 158.

George Sidders, who meets Spider Kelly of Kansas City in the local armory Friday night, did not fight at Poughkeepsie. Leon Aliza, a Cuban, taking his place against Joe Gorman of Albany, who kayoed the substitute in the seventh round.

The curtain raiser of four rounds between Steve Fargus of Poughkeepsei and Tommy Finley of New York city was called a draw.

Dominick Patrone, a leading lightweight of New York city, was introduced from the ring by Chief Waller, announcer, who said that Petrone would be booked for a future show.

Sidders Trains Hard for Ke

George Sidders, Canadian welterweight champion, according to advertisements put out by the Woodcliff Pleasure Park Athletic Club, should be in good shape for his battle with Spider Kelly at the local arena Friday night, owing to the fact that he did not meet Joe Gorman at Woodcliff Park stadium Tuesday night.

Sidders is after a victory over Kelly and will go the limit Friday night to overtake the Spider, who won from him last week on a foul. Previous to the unintentional foul blow the fight was a lightning affair that had the strict attention of the fans. The drill shed likely will be packed when the two Canadians resume their ring war Friday night.

Kelly was scheduled to arrive at the boxers' camp at Eddyville today to complete his training for Sidders. He did not wish to make the trip from New York on the day of the fight. The Spider's apparent interest in conditioning himself for Sidders shows that he means to beat George. He claims that he can.

Schmeling Will Be Busy in Courts

New York, July 3 (AP).—Hemmed about by a plethora of managers, Max Schmeling appears destined to starve in the midst of plenty.

Just when the German heavyweight's stock has gone sky-high because of his victory over Paulino Uzcudun, Schmeling's feud with his one-time manager, Arthur Buelow, has reared its head again to threaten not only Herr Max's peace of mind but his ring earnings as well.

With the Paulino-Schmeling fight out of the way and charity the richer therefor, the New York State Athletic Commission has decreed that Schmeling now must fulfill a contract, signed by Buelow with Humbert Fugazy to fight Phil Scott, of England, at Ebbetts Field, Brooklyn, August 7.

Schmeling has said time and again that he never would go through with any match arranged by Buelow. Rather, he said, he would return to Germany and wait for his contract with Buelow to expire in October of 1930.

Whatever the German decides to do, it seems that Madison Square Garden's plans for a bout between Schmeling and Jack Sharkey here in September must be abandoned. Sharkey is bound to the Garden until July 15 when an opponent for the September bout must be named.

It seems now that the Garden may let its option on Sharkey expire without a struggle.

As for the Athletic Commission, Chairman James A. Farley said the commission would have nothing further to do with the situation except to see that Buelow gets his 20 per cent cut of Schmeling's earnings until his contract expires.

Buelow, through his attorneys, filed a motion in state Supreme court yesterday, asking appointment of a receiver for 13 1-3 per cent of Schmeling's purse for fighting Paulino. Buelow said the Athletic Commission had declared it would order this part of the Teuton's purse paid to Schmeling's American managers, Joe Jacobs and Charley Rose.

Whatever happens, it appears that most of Schmeling's engagements in the near future will be of court, rather than boxing, record.

PRINCE AND PRINCESS RETIRE TO MONASTIC LIFE

Milan, Italy, July 3 (AP).—A prince and princess of Biscari, Sicily, today took up life behind the church's cloisters, eschewing forevermore things worldly and their life together.

Two days ago the prince, Paterno Castello, was ordained as priest, becoming Father Ignatius. Yesterday he himself bestowed the veil upon his wife, Donna Angela Auteri, whom he married 25 years ago. She became Sister Maria of Jesus.

The Prince and Princess were married more than 20 years before they decided to retire to a monastic life. The prince became a novice in the monastery of Carrobiolo Di Monza and the princess entered the convent of Restocco. After long study the prince was ordained by the Bishop of Lodi.

At the conclusion of his first Mass yesterday in the Restocco Chapel Carmelite Sisters accompanied the princess to the altar railing. She chanted: "With his ring the Lord has bound me and has adorned me with great riches."

The Mother Superior took off her white veil of the novitiate, showing for a second the face of the new nun, pale with emotion. Father Ignatius contemplated her for a moment and then with a quick gesture hid her face forever with a black veil.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, July 3 (AP).—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets.)—The demand for celery in the rough was a trifle more active on the local wholesale district today and values, especially on fancy, averaged a shade higher. On the other hand, the undertone on bunched celery was weaker, particularly on medium and small stock. Sales on offerings in the rough, packed in two-thirds crates brought $6-$7 on the best and $4-$5.50 on inferior. Bunched celery sold as high as $1.50 on the finest and as low as 25c on the poorest.

Fancy Big Boston lettuce continued to meet a prompt sale, but off grade received scant attention. New York upstate crates of two dozen heads sold at $2-$3 on the fair to good and 25c-$1.50 on the poor to ordinary.

The onion crop in six intermediate onion sections is forecast at 1,731,000 bushels, or about 320,000 less than last year. Increases over last year are indicated for Washington and for eastern Iowa, but reductions are expected in other states. In the Collin county district of Texas, production of 165,000 bushels would be less than half of last season's crop. Kentucky with 125,000 bushels may have only about 50 per cent of the 1928 crop. New Jersey leads, with an expected crop of 735,000 bushels. Washington probably will have 432,000 and Scott county, Iowa, 236,000 bushels.

The moderate supply of green peas received from upstate New York met a ready sale at about unchanged prices. A large volume of the wholesale business was at $3-$3.50; occasionally $3.75, a bushel basket. Crates of approximately 45 pounds from Arizona and Colorado sold at $5-$5.50.

Hudson valley red currants were plentiful and prices again declined. Sales on quart baskets were reported as high as 15c and as low as 8c. Gooseberries were in limited receipt and fancy large continued to command 18-20c. The short supply of red raspberries changed hands promptly at advanced prices. Pint baskets brought 22-28c.

MIRRORS OF YESTERDAY

BY ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
(Associated Press Feature Writer)

The interest of a speed-jaded public today in new airplane and motor car records is mild compared with the excitement that attended the setting of a new mark for fast time by steamships and trains 50 years ago.

Widespread was the disappointment in the spring of '79 when the City of Paris, foundered and most promising of the "ocean greyhounds," failed on its first trip across the Atlantic to lower the time of 6 days 1 hour and 55 minutes set by the Etruria.

The press devoted columns to the trip and the comparative speed of the fastest trains. An English train had attained the "freightful velocity" of 60 miles an hour, which brought the editorial prediction that a maximum in speed soon must be reached.

Great figures of the Victorian era were making the farewell appearances on the stage of world affairs.

The aging Bismarck, having completed the forging in "blood and iron" of the German empire, was quarreling with the imperious young kaiser, the present master of Doorn.

Leo XIII was the reigning pontiff at Rome, and Gladstone and Parnell were strong men in Britain.

A St. Louis millionaire, who had sunk a fortune in the Chicago wheat pit, created a sensation by committing suicide, and Jay Gould said he was sorry he was so rich, declaring a million dollars was enough for any man.

Edwin Booth, appearing in Shakespearean repertoire, was stricken with paralysis on the stage of the Lyceum theatre at Rochester, N. Y.

Forty cowboys had left ranches in Kansas to go to Minneapolis to take the place of striking streetcar employes, prairie fires had wrought heavy destruction in the territory of Dakota, and Washington Irving Bishop, the celebrated mind reader, died unexpectedly while exhibiting his powers in the Lambs club at New York. His death was ascribed to intense congestion of the brain.

Advertising writers were turning to spring poetry to command the attention of the public. The following gem appeared in several metropolitan papers:

Then he clasped her with emotion,
Drew the maiden to his breast,
Whispered vows of true devotion,
The old, old tale—you know the rest.
From his circled arm upspringing
With a tear she turned away,
And her voice, with sorrow ringing,
"I shall not see my bridal day."

Beneath the verse was the explanation:

"This dramatic speech broke him up badly, but when she explained that her apprehensions were founded on an inherent predisposition to consumption in her family he calmed her fears." And forthwith went to a corner drug store, recounted the advertisement, and obtained a bottle of a famous patent medicine. "Now," said the advertising epilogue, "she is the incarnation of health."

Despite the smooth face advertising campaign of shaving soap manufacturers, from the professional ball player to the dignified occupants of the court bench "masterful males" sported luxuriant mustaches. And the czar was sending convicts to Siberia with their heads half shaven.

ROSENDALE.

Rosendale, July 3.—Communion will be administered at the Reformed Church on Sunday morning, July 7, at 11:15 o'clock. It is hoped there will be a goodly number of the church members present with their friends.

The Rev. Theodore A. Beekman of Forest Glen called on old friends in this village on Wednesday last.

The many friends of Patsie Burns in this village will be glad to know she is slowly recovering from her operation for the removal of adenoids and tonsils performed at the Benedictine Hospital at Kingston a few days ago.

Mrs. William Nolan, who motored to her home in Pennsylvania one day the past week, is expected home on Thursday.

Mrs. Lewis Ten Hagen and little Betty Benjamin of New Paltz, spent the past Wednesday with Mrs. Charles Ten Hagen and family.

Mrs. Walter Wesp and little son of New York city are guests at the Wesp Cottage in this village.

Miss Lillian Schoonmaker of Maple Hill was a guest of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Hasbrouck on Wednesday last.

Miss Helen R. White left on Sunday for Rochester where she will spend her summer vacation with her sister.

Mrs. Seitz and children, Clifford, William and Anna, of Astoria, arrived Tuesday at the home of her father Frederick Engel, where they will spend a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Minx and family of Clavarack spent Sunday with relatives in this village.

The Children's Day exercises at the Baptist Church were well rendered on Sunday evening and much credit is due to all who helped to make them a success.

Mrs. Catherine Young of Brooklyn is spending a few weeks at the home of Mrs. John Ollry.

About fifty children from New York city are camping on the grounds in the house formerly known in this place as the "Stanhope." The camp is called Camp Columbia.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmitts and children, Paul and Frederick, who spent two weeks with Mrs. Schmitt's mother, returned to their home on Staten Island on Saturday.

Harry Ten Hagen and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Eli Auchmoody at Kyserike.

Joseph Kopp is moving from the Snyder cottage on Lower Main street to the Baptist parsonage.

Arthur Moore is planning to spend the Fourth of July with his brother, Henry, and family, at Livingston, Columbia county.

Maurice DeWitt and family of this village and Charles Minx and family of Clavarack, motored to the Ashokan dam on Sunday.

Charles Clinman, who is employed at Williams Lake, has moved from this village to Binnewater to be nearer his work.

Mrs. John Osterhoudt and daughter, Charlotte, of Kingston, spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Emzy Lewis, Mrs. Osterhoudt's parents.
